Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 21 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mainly dry and rather mild.

This Evening and Tonight:
Remaining dry overnight with variable cloud amounts and clear spells. Winds will be light so it may turn chilly in rural spots by the morning. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Monday:
A dry and bright start to Monday with sunny spells, especially across eastern areas. Likely turning cloudier in the west with some light rain and drizzle possible later. Remaining mild. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Staying dry but becoming windy through Tuesday and Wednesday with partly cloudy skies. Perhaps cloudier on Thursday with winds easing. Remaining mild, perhaps very mild midweek.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.